Memorial Day

MEMORIAL DAY EXERCISES

Memorial Day exercises were held at the steps of the Mattapoisett Library last Tuesday at 2 P.M. The event was sponsored by Florence Eastman Post No. 280, American Legion, Mattapoisett, with Commander Charles Savaria making the introductions.

Norman W. Steward, National Executive Board Committeeman, American Legion, was the guest speaker. Gene Gaspar, an eighth grader at Old Rochester Regional High School, gave the Gettysburg Address. A prayer was by the Rev. Damien Veary, SS.CC., associate pastor at St. Anthony's Church, Mattapoisett. Selections by the Portugese American Band from New Bedford completed the program.

Appropriate exercises were held at the monument adjacent to the library, at the town wharf and at Cushing Cemetery, following which participants were served refreshments at the Legion Hall, Depot Street.

Parade marshalls were Major Charles Morgan and Major George White. Included in the line of march were Mattapoisett Selectmen David N. Haley and John Field, members of Florence Eastman Post, members of VFW, Marion, a firing squad from New Bedford ROTC, the Portuguese American Band, the Old Rochester Regional High School Band, Brownies, Girl Scouts, Cub Scouts and Boy Scouts.

A New Perspective in Banking comes to Wareham

The most important ingredients in any new venture are faith in the future and knowledge of product potential. Careful study of these ingredients will automatically give birth to new ideas and in turn, result in new steps towards progress.

The Wareham Savings Bank, by virtue of the addition to its Wareham office, has set a new pattern in the field of banking for the area. This great step forward is made with complete assurance that the future of the area is bright with promise of growth and with the knowledge that our product - one of service to our customers - grows in potential more and more each day.

Through this new addition the Wareham Savings Bank offers more than just expanded quarters; it now offers banking services... through a new concept. A concept which will provide customers with the finest and most modern banking facilities available in the entire Wareham area. From all standpoints, architectural or service, we are happy to announce that this fine old banking institution - now in its 121st year - will embark on a course which brings to the Wareham area ...

KEITH TESTIFYS ON OIL PROBLEM

Congressman Hastings Keith (R.-Mass.), testifying before the Senate Public Works Committee today, displayed pictures of oil-stained Cape Cod beaches and told the Senate panel that immediate changes in the law are necessary to prevent the recurrence of serious oil pollution.

The Massachusetts Congressman appeared first in a list of witnesses that included the Attorney General of the United States, Ramsey Clark, and Secretary of the Interior, Stewart Udall. The Senate Committee is investigating the problem of oil pollution in our coastal seas and inland waterways and is seeking ways to tighten Federal law.

Keith described for the Senators the large oil slicks which struck nearly 40 miles of Cape Cod coastline on April 17th and showed pictures of the damage done to waterfowl and resort beaches. Outlining the dangers faced by districts with long, exposed coastlines, he said that "defensive measures should not wait until the oil is already on the water". "By that time," Keith said, "the damage to marine life is done, and the use of chemical cleaning agents may even be worse."

Research done after Britain's oil tanker disaster in March showed that spilled oil killed about 30% of the tiny marine animals which are a vital part of the "food chain" for other fishes, but that detergents used to remove the oil killed 96%. Keith said that during his visit to English beaches in early May, he could see water mixed with thousands of gallons of the efficient but deadly detergent washing against the shores.

To prevent future oil spillage in coastal waters, Keith recommended that penalties be stiffened for vessel owners and captains who allow oil wastes to be released overboard, and that the government not be required to prove "gross negligence" before prosecuting. He also suggested that since the problem of oil pollution cuts across the jurisdiction of several Congressional committees, cooperation should be maintained for a coordinated attack on all aspects of pollution.

Rochester Historical Group

HISTORICAL STUDY GROUP MEETING

Ralph Walker was elected chairman of the newly formed Rochester Historical Study Group at a recent meeting held at the lovely old home of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Underhill on Neck Road. Other officers are Mrs. Donald Jenkins, vice-chairman; Mrs. James Gurney, historical secretary; Mrs. Clifton Vaughan, recording secretary; Mrs. Richard Besse, corresponding secretary; James Gurney, treasurer; Harry Brown, program chairman; and Mrs. David Enroth, publicity chairman.

Other matters discussed at the business session included the necessity for a dues system, the purchase of a scrapbook for historical material and future procedures and projects.

One of the aims of the Historical Group is the establishment of the date and location of approximately 130 old Rochester homes. Any Rochester resident who is able to prove that his home was built prior to 1767 is asked to contact Mr. Walker. The Conservation Commission has volunteered to provide an exterior date plaque for any such home and the information would be of considerable value to the Historical Study Group.

During the five months of the group's existence much progress has been made in compiling historical data, especially concerning the areas of North Rochester and Rochester Center. A primary source of information has been found in studying the early settlers and their descendants, including the Coombs, Bennett, Sparrow, Besse, Jenkins, Bisbee, Arnold, Braley, Dexter, Humphrey, Hiller and Haskell families. Also, old maps, deeds, wills, letters, photographs and excerpts from the Rochester Proprietary Records have been collected by members and examined at the meetings. However, much research is necessary in order to cover the approximately 300 years of Ro-

PUBLIC INVITED TO OPEN HOUSE AT BANK

The Wareham Savings Bank has completed an expansion program which has been in the planning and building stages for a great many months. Festival of FLAGS

FAIRHAVEN FESTIVAL OF FLAGS

The second annual Fairhaven Festival of Flags will be held on July 5-8, 1967. This year's festival is not only to show honor and respect to our Flag, but will also be dedicated to our military forces in Viet Nam.

The following is a quote from David L. Mc Donald, Chief of Staff Naval Operations, Washington, D. C., wherein he congratulates the people of the town of Fairhaven:

"I must congratulate you and the people of Fairhaven for your dedication to the Flag of our great country and for the spirit of patriotism which you evidence by this unique display. It is most gratifying for me to know that there is a town with a group of such highly motivated and sincere Americans."

Friends Summer Program

SPECIAL EVENTS AT FRIENDS MEETING

The Children's Day Program, Family Night and the Bible School outing were a few of the special events planned for the Summer season at the Bible School Staff meeting of the Friends Meeting in Mattapoisett last Wednesday night.

A special workshop program presenting ideas for the successful Sunday School was presented to those at the meeting.

Various visual aid methods and other helpful materials were on display at this time.

Bible School classes for all ages will be conducted throughout the Summer at 10 A.M. each Sunday.

Nursery School classes will meet at 11 A.M. during the Sunday morning worship service. The nursery class is for all pre-school children. Special Biblical emphasis correlate each lesson to every day experiences for the little folks.

Sunday, June 11th, the pastor will be speaking on the subject, "Things That Get Results", at the 11 A.M. worship service.

Tentative plans are made to begin an adult Bible Study class in the near future.

FLAG DAY CEREMONY IN BOSTON

On June 14th, 1967 at 12:00 noon, the American Legion, Department of Massachusetts, in conjunction with the Association of the United States Army and the City of Boston, will present a Flag Day Ceremony at the Parkman Bandstand, Boston Common, Boston, Mass.

The National Security Commission urges all comrades who are available to take part in this ceremony to honor the Flag of our country. This will be a splendid opportunity, as a rebuttal to the minority groups, who are desecrating the American Flag.

All Post Color Guards are cordially invited to take part.

Formation will be at 11:30 A.M. at the Parkman Bandstand, Boston Common. The principal speaker will be Past Department Commander, William F. Hogan, chairman of the House Military Affiars committee.

MARION GIRL SCOUTS

The Marion Girl Scouts prepare to march as the parade leaves the VFW exercises and starts for the cemetery in Marion.

LETTER TO WILLIAM CROFT

The following is a copy of a letter sent to Mr. William Croft from the Mattapoisett Board of Selectmen:

The Board of Selectmen, at this time, wish to thank you for the splendid work you have done as a member of the Upper Cape Cod Regional Vocational Technical School District.

We certainly appreciate your efforts in behalf of the voters of Mattapoisett.

CAPT. ARCHELAUS BAKER SNATCHED FROM JAWS OF DEATH - AFTER FLOATING ABOUT IN SOUTHERN OCEAN ON FRAIL RAFT

Captain Dundas some years ago in an article printed in The Queensferry Observer, alluding to the severe weather at the time that the Crapo went down and the miraculous rescue of Captain Baker, said:

"It was noon, I had just taken the meridian altitude of the sun, when my attention was called to a distant object showing occasionally on the top of a rolling wave. We had got steam up, and shaken the reefs out and were making steady progress under steam and sail. If we cared to interview the stranger, therefore, it must be done sharply; the little speck was broad on the bow, and quite three miles to windward. Seizing a telescope I jumped on the rail, and in a moment of time realized it was a raft. I had no time to satisfy the public curiosity (there was a large number of passengers on deck at the time), but yelled out 'Hard a starboard, all hands shorten sail,' and in less time than I take to write it the ship was alive, and the orders executed as if by magic. I ran the ensign up in token of our recognition, and Captain Baker told me afterwards that when he saw that flag going up the peak he felt as if his death warrant had been cancelled.

"Great was the excitement on board as we rounded to within a short distance of the raft

Were I to live a thousand years, I could never forget that picture. There was a little raft, formed principally of oars and small pieces of driftwood, lashed together by chance pieces of rope that had been attached to the wreckage, floating helplessly on the lone waters of the great southern ocean, and two men clinging to it for dear life; before we hove in sight their only hope could have been a lingering death, for we were not in the usual track of ships, and it was the action of the hurricane that had providentially brought us to the rescue. All hands watched the movements of the cutter with pent up feelings of intense excitement as it drew close to the raft. The two men sat across the tiny spars immersed to their waists and apparently but scantily clad. One was a white man who, with all the energy of his race, sprang into the water and swam to the boat; the other was of swarthy complexion, and seemed to be utterly prostrated; his head hung forward, while his long black hair entirely hid his features. He was lifted carefully in, and at that moment from the poop of the England was heard one joyful cry--'They are saved.' I never remember to have seen so much feeling evinced as on this occasion, while several of the ladies shed tears of sympathy."

When Captain Baker reached his home in South Dartmouth he was compelled to tell the story of his miraculous escape over and over again, and finally he arranged for a public meeting, which was held in the Baptist church on Elm Street, and before an audience which filled the little church he gain related his experience.

SCOUTS HAVE ANNUAL DAY-OUT

Annual day-out for the Girl Scouts of Mattapoisett was held last Saturday at Camp Metacomet. Five members of the Senior troop were in charge of activities for the day. The morning program consisted of International games from five different countries in which each girl had an opportunity to participate. Following picnic lunches, a song fest was conducted by Jane Wheeler, senior. Each troop performed a song, and skits were presented pertaining to the Scout Laws. Leaders and assistants accompanied the girls.
